

An Cosan Glas Cois Farrige

A commission with two elements : An outdoor sculpture project for children using natural and found materials from the shore. With the help of six artists, the group created huge and exciting sculptures that formed part of the Multi Media Environmental Sculpture Project. Produced in association with Saothar Ealaíne Artists Group, Udarás na Gaeltachta and Earagail Arts Festival. Taking their inspiration from elements in the surrounding landscape and using natural and found materials, the artists have created living and floating sculptures. With the aid of a giant screen, laser lighting, pyrotechnics, projected images, reflections, shadows and light are blended with sounds and music to create a journey into the realms of the senses. This was a unique once only performance.
